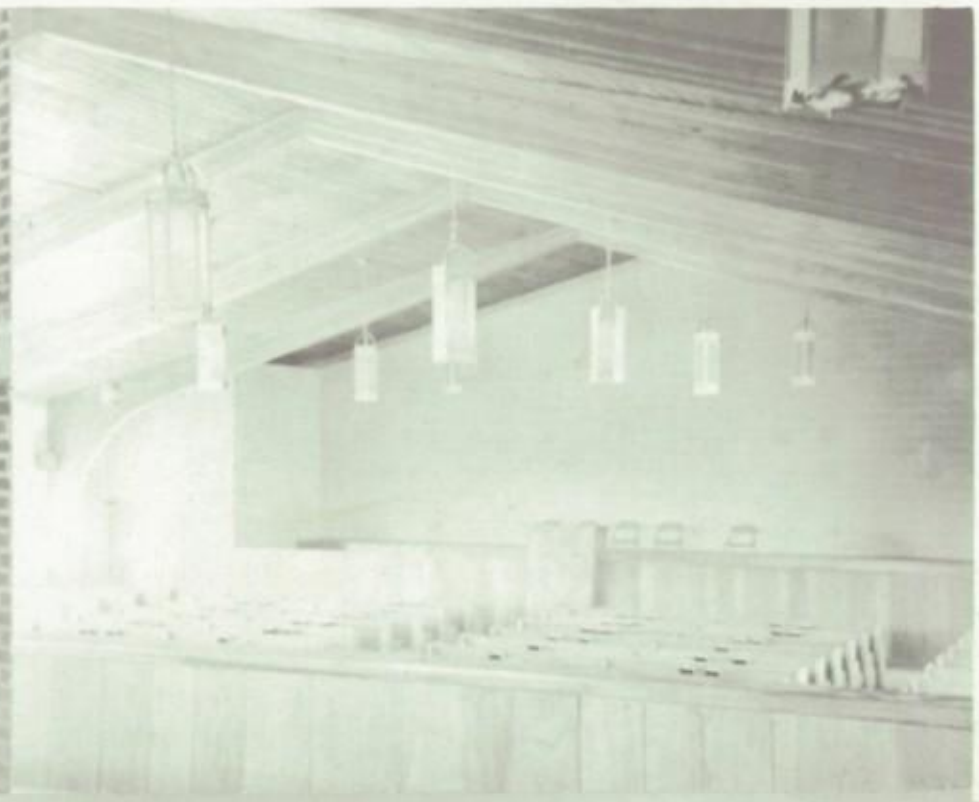
Our new chapel takes form

The chapel invites us to worship



Life was dreary,
Dark, alone.
We stood dismayed
At brink
Of disaster.
Then we lived
Or fell.
We cared not.
We had no aim,
No guide to follow.
All, yea all, was folly.

Life's bright,
Cheerful.
We stand amazed
At grace
Of God.
Today we live!
We care!
We conquer!
We have our aim!
We go
Forth
In the will
Of our Master!

President's Message

Almost all of us seniors have grown up in Christian homes with parents who have taught us, not only by words, but also by daily actions, the way of Christ. Our churches and our school have emphasized the happiness of walking with Christ.

Nevertheless, we all must constantly make our own decisions concerning Christ and His church. As we go forth in life, we will continually be faced with trials and temptations. But if we put our trust in Christ and yield to His will, He will help us overcome every obstruction that would hinder our walk on the straight and narrow way.

Even though we have completed our high school education, life is a continual learning process. Daily we must study God's Word and use it as the basis for our convictions. As we fellowship with God each day, we must remember that to go "Forth in Our Master's Will" we must give up our selfish desires and yield our all to Christ. —Ernest S. Mast.

Class Song

Gladys Graybill — Leavitt Keener

1. We are striv - ing forth in our Mas - ter's will
2. Do-ing well the task He has giv - en us:
3. Fill - ing each mo - ment with watch-ful prayer
4. Al - though the fu - ture may be un - known,

On the rugged path - way of our life.
We mean to tell the won-drous love
For those of our friends who need to know
And every - thing seems to go down - hill;

Our thoughts, words, ac - tions we must ful - fill
Of the dear Son who came from hea - ven
The One who guides each through the way.
We pledge to win souls for His very own;

Each day for Je - sus through the strife.
To die on the Cross for all man - kind.
These our du - ties, we must be - stow.
And ever go forth in our Mas - ter's will.

(after last verse only)

And ev - er go forth in our Mas - ter's will.

Graduate Dedication Song

Lloyd Wert — Lois Wert

1. Fa - ther, in youth's gold - en morn - ing,
2. Yon - der lies a path un - known,
3. Guide us as we fol - low on - ward.

We have heard Thy call di - vine.
If you guide, we need not fear.
We shall will - ing ser - vants be.

Leav - ing all our vain am - bi - tions,
And in tri - als that con-front us,
Know - ing that each task be - fore us,

Help us say, "Thy will, not mine."
We will know that you are near.
Shall live on e - ter - nal - ly.

"Forth in Our Master's Will"

As we stand before the future,
Trials, challenges we see.
Riches, pleasure, fame, and honor
Seek to claim our loyalty,
But our Master too is pleading,
"Take my will and follow me."

Master, you control the future,
You can guide our steps aright.
Mold and use us in Thy service,
Help us stand for truth and right.
Talents, service, all we give Thee.
You deserve the very best.
Over mountain, through dark valley,
We will go, if you request.
We are apt to shrink from hardships,
Prone to take the easy way.
But Thy footprints we will follow,
Speak the word and we'll obey.
You have planned our lives completely
You have work for each to do.
Show us, Lord, our place of service,
To Thy will we must be true.

Never fear, with Christ our Master,
We can triumph over ill.
With His guiding hand to lead us
And His voice so clear and still,
We can pledge with deepest meaning,
"Forth in Our Master's Will."

"Excused for class."

Dear Seniors:

You have now achieved a major accomplishment in your life and are to be congratulated. One of the major features of this achievement has been the acquiring of skills and the self-confidence needed to complete successfully a task. Without these acquired skills and the resultant self-confidence they beget, you may well be dismayed as you face a future with its many and difficult tasks. But with them the challenge of difficulties is a welcome one and we face them with a certain amount of anticipation.

For who wants to lead a dull and dispassionate existence with no opportunity to prove his mettle. May you have, under the lordship of Christ, a happy, profitable, and interesting life.

AMOS W. WEAVER

We write
On the pages of your lives
That men may
Read.

Some of us write
Mathematical equations,
The intricacies of physics,
chemistry,
and the stars,
The variations of grammar,
And the wonders of human life seen and foreseen.

Some write
Of recipes, patterns, and the home,
Of saws, planes, and the farm,
Of bugs, plants, and life.

Others write
The birdlike notes of music,
The meaning of life in literature,
And the power of languages,
dead and alive.

We write, too,
Of the Bible—
its history,
its prophecy,
its love.

We write,
And our pens are different,
our ink is not the same.

Yet we each write,
And together
We write
About Him.

We write
On the pages of your lives
That men may
Read
Jesus.

"Yes, that's very interesting."

Dear Seniors:

Life is so full of interesting opportunities to do good and to have valuable relationships that one is never done preparing and learning for them.

Much of what you have done in school so far will be useful to you in more ways than you now realize. Active learning and maturing does not end with the last day of formal education in school.

The subjects and lessons that you studied in a formal way in school will be the tools and methods with which you gain and give out information in your less formal activities in later life.

We sincerely hope that your school experience has made you more fit to appreciate life, and to contribute to the lives of others. Above all, we sincerely hope that it has helped you to live a God-honoring life.

To the Graduating Class of 1959:

It is with personal appreciation for each one of you that I express to you my best wishes upon the attainments which you have reached and for your future ideals for your life.

There will be many times in your life when it will become necessary to reflect upon your past life and to think carefully about new decisions which you will need to make for the future. To acknowledge the Lord and accept His guidance in some of our ways does not go far enough in our devotion and dedication of life to Christ. The greatest promise and assurance for a useful life was given by Christ Himself when He promised to direct our paths if we acknowledge Him in all our ways. To do this brings us peace in our inner life.

To the Underclassmen

These years passed quickly.
They are gone.
We do not pine
Or by some art wish
To relive them. But we pray
That our presence
Has strengthened.
And that our actions
Have exemplified
Ideals of Christian faith.
And as future seniors,
Uphold them more firmly,
Profiting from our mistakes.

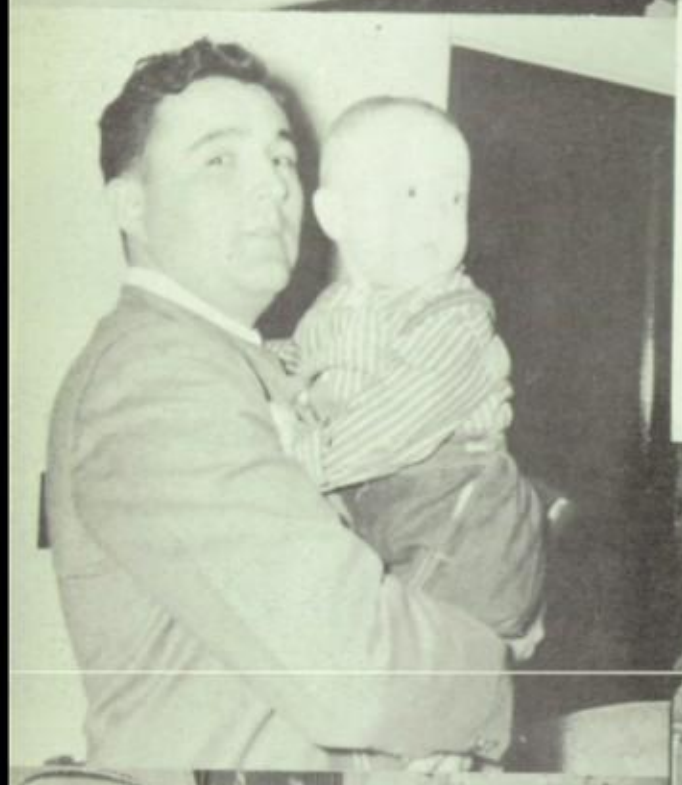
OUR ROCK



As we leave, we look back
On things we loved,
On things that we remember best.
Things
That at the time
Appeared small:
A smile,
A song,
A kind word,
A rebuke.
For these things
Are real.
Preserved in memory
As tokens
Of the past.
